The report website has been finished (but not deployed), but there are still issues with today's data. For one, Melissa is cleaning up the data right now. Also, the air monitoring systems are still collecting data for the day and will not be picked up until 6:15 pm. I could send you a report now, but it would not contain all the data. When you receive the report later today, it will contain today's data in the report format you have approved, as well as a map and the wind roses.

Attached is an example of how the reports will look. It shows yesterday's data for Location A.
